

TRI-STATE HOSPITAL WILL OPEN DOORS OF BEAUTIFUL NEW BUILDING THURSDAY

New Structure Erected at Cost of $300,000, Including Equipment, Entails Average Maintenance Expense of $10,000 and Has Rooms for 125 Patients; 46 in Nursing Force

Thursday the beautiful new Tri-State Hospital, Inc. formally opens its doors to the public of three states, inviting them to inspect its super-facilities for service, with open house from 7:30 to 10 o'clock Thursday night.

The Tri-State hospital is truly "of the people, by the people, for the people," and an institution of this kind, not only Shreveport, but all of Louisiana, South Arkansas and east Texas have every reason to be proud.

The cost of erecting and equipping the new Tri-State hospital is approximately $300,000. The average maintenance expense is $10,000 monthly. The regular payroll holds the names of about 100 employees.

The Tri-State hospital is one of the most completely equipped in the entire south. It is non-sectarian, open to everybody and to the legitimate practice of the medical profession.

A handsome building houses 125 patients' rooms, a large number of which are equipped with telephones. The rooms are tastefully furnished with frilly curtains, colored dressing tables and chairs, Simmons' beds and beautiful patterned linens, affording the maximum of comfort. Each bed is equipped with electric signals, an alarm, immediate service.

There is a sitting room on every floor for the accommodation of friends and families of patients. Adjoining the second floor is the beautiful roof garden, providing a comfortable and private lounging place in the fresh air and sunshine for convalescents.

The Tri-State hospital has three main operating rooms, an obstetrical room, a chamber for the treatment of patients, an emergency room and an X-ray room; a woman's ward, with nurse curators, and well-afforded comparative privacy; and the two main wards are similarly constructed. Room for eight patients is provided in each of the men's wards. A ward of nurses is equipped with facilities for caring for 10 to 20 patients.

The obstetrical room for the Tri-State hospital is the most modern and elaborately equipped to be found anywhere. This room is devoted exclusively to obstetrics. Two outstanding features are the delivery bed with the necessary equipment; and the incubator for premature babies. Every baby given a birth certificate showing finger prints of the mother and father, and of the baby. This certificate is signed by the attending physician, the mother and another person who holds the witness of all matters in the hospital for the treatment of cancer, and for diagnosis purposes is not contagious and is never physician to physician.

Dr. J. C. Willis, Sr., president of the Tri-State hospital, is a native of Homer, La., and one of the best known men in the medical profession in the south. Graduating from Vanderbilt Medical school, he engaged in private practice in his home city with Dr. J. E. Knighton, one of his present associates. In 1904, Doctor Willis moved to Shreveport, and for 20 years was chief surgeon at Schumpert Memorial sanitarium. He is a member of the Fellow American College of Surgeons, president of the Louisiana State Medical association, president of the Louisiana State College and Training School. He is still quite the student, and never loses an opportunity to gain in knowledge of the many improvements in his profession.

MUSHER BRINGS CLUE OF PILOTS LOST IN SIBERIA

New York, Nov. 27 (AP)—Word of the first clue as to the whereabouts of Carl Ben Eason and Earl Burdick, Arctic flyers, who are lost somewhere in the ice field surrounding North Cape, Siberia, was received Wednesday by officials of the aviation service.

A dog team arriving at Teller, Alaska, brought word that smoke was seen in the foothills 30 miles from Cape North, and preparations were made for a rescue expedition to search the vicinity, according to the message to New York.

Eason and Burdick were lost when they set out in a plane to rescue passengers of the ice-locked ship Nauyas.

The population of Europe tripled during the nineteenth century.

The Tri-State hospital has been under its present management less than two years. On February 15, 1928, Drs. Willis, Knighton, Kerlin and Willis took over the management of what was then the Tri-State sanitarium. Since that time, improvements have since been made and the increased patronage has made necessary the expansion of the plants from all parts of Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas and from other points are admitted constantly to Shreveport Tri-State hospital.

The reputation of the institution's plant is so extensive that it is not an uncommon occurrence to receive patients from distant parts of the north, east and western United States.

In keeping with the progressive spirit of the staff and management of the Tri-State hospital, constant efforts have been consistently made to give to Shreveport the most outstanding institution of its kind in the south. The people of the south are appreciative of the staff's endeavor to afford them the best.

The public is cordially invited to visit the new Tri-State hospital and to note its many excellent points. There are few institutions in the United States today, even large cities, more modestly equipped, more efficiently arranged, more completely staffed, or better able to care for their patients than the beautiful new Tri-State hospital.

BODIES OF VETS WHO LED TROOPS IN RUSSIA HOME

New York, Nov. 27 (Universal Service)—The bodies of 78 soldiers who died while members of the American Expeditionary Force in Russia will arrive here on the President Roosevelt Thursday.

The honor ship, Mayor Walker has ordered all flags on public buildings to be flown at half-staff.

The Marine New York's welcome committee will carry the bodies to the city and a group of military and veterans' association leaders to the city.

A guard of honor and a band from the 6888 Central Postal Directory have been designated by Maj. Gen. H. H. Dyer to meet the bodies. Most of the bodies were men who died at Archangelsk and other points in the north. It is believed that a majority will be sent to the city.

At least 200,000 men are in the combined forces of the United States, British, French, Italian, Japanese, and Chinese, the highest in the history of the world.

The bodies of the men who died in the war have been named and their names are being placed on a monument in the city.

NURSING STAFF AT TRI-STATE HOSPITAL

Miss Florence Watson, charter member of the Louisiana State Nurses' association, has under her supervision 46 student nurses—splendid, earnest young women whose lives are dedicated to the care of the sick and suffering. No student is taken for training in the Tri-State hospital unless she has completed a high school education. The graduate nurses are thoroughly trained and efficient, and a most unusual group of fine young womenhood. A beautiful home with every modern convenience is provided for the nurses. This home faces Virginia avenue, and in it are happy quarters cheerfully and assisted at work and at home. Miss Frances Revere is anesthetist and supervisor of the third floor. The X-ray and physiotherapy room is under the supervision of Dr. M. C. Barron, with Mrs. Florence Watson and Mrs. C. F. Law, technicians. Mrs. Era Atwood Witherspoon is supervisor of the operating rooms and obstetrical room. Miss Bertha Butler is night supervisor and Miss Pauline Bridges is supervisor of the second floor.

BOOTH GOODS IN HOSPITAL

New Tri-State Building Was Furnished and Equipped by Local Store

In the acclaim which is the portion of the Tri-State hospital Thursday, when it stages its formal opening to the people of three states, and under the auspices of Booth Furniture and Carpet company, is abundant honor when it comes to the point where the furnishings will be considered.

Everything is of the newest and most correct style, pleasing the Tri-State hospital on a par with any institution in the country. Months of careful planning and extensive negotiations were necessary that every article of furniture and carpeting be of the nature of the place and with the quality demanded.

The patient's rooms are equipped with the celebrated Simmons beds, considered the standard in hospitals of the better sort. Every Tri-State patient will find rest and relaxation upon beautiful mattresses, built to afford the sleeper the maximum of comfort.

The cherry frilly curtains, and the harmonious colored dressing table and chair in every room, brighten the sickroom, and give the patient the needed solace of a rooming in an excellent body.

The corridors and all other covered floor surfaces are laid with Armstrong's linoleum, from Booth's, where the selections were found to be unusually varied and authentic. The noticeable element as well as the wearing qualities and the artistry of design, turned favor Booth's Armstrong stock.

Doctors! You Know

That Biologicals can be 100% efficacious only when they have been properly kept, neither too hot nor too cold, but at a uniform temperature of 40 to 45 degrees Fahrenheit.

BUT DO YOU ALWAYS KNOW that the Bios you are using almost daily, and on which your reputation and your patient's life may depend, have been so kept?

YOU CAN KNOW

to a dead moral certainty by insisting that your dealer get his supplies from us, as he needs them.

BECAUSE OUR BIOLOGICALS

are stored in this big Friedrich Refrigerator, which is made of solid air-dried oak and tongue and grooved Louisiana cypress, insulated with cork board, sealed with hot melted asphalt and equipped with an automatic Frigidair unit which is guaranteed to maintain a uniform temperature of 44 degrees with a variation of not more than 4 degrees.
